About the hunt:

Mahenye is the original CAMPFIRE area in Zimbabwe and the community has been involved in the hunting industry for more than thirty years. The Save river forms its western and southern boundary of which 25kms is a shared boundary with Gonarezhou National Park. There are estimated to be more than 6,000 elephant in the Park which is 5,500sq kms in size. This elephant population has produced several large tuskers in the recent past including elephant well over 100lbs in size!

Our concession provides an opportunity to hunt from this large elephant population and for elephant hunters to try for an exceptional trophy bull.

Getting there:

Fly into Harare and take a charter a flight to the hunting area.

Highlights of this hunt:

This is undoubtedly one of the best areas in all of Zimbabwe to try for a once in a lifetime bull elephant, the other area being along the Hwange National Park boundary. The operator's success rate for large ivory speaks for itself. Go with the expectation of shooting a 50lb+ bull and with some luck you could come home with a giant!
